Commentary

IXP opens at 7008; same as previous close. Volatility continued to rise. The market is still unstable as it moves between the resistance at 7026 and the support at 6980. The index reached the highest point at 7030 but due to the selling pressure and weak trades it fell to reach the lowest at 7002, and then closed at 7029; 21 points above previous close. liquidity ratio at the end of the day shows 43% buy and 557% sell. With this weak trades the index will not be able to break the resistance and might fall back, unless a positive first quarter results that could give the index the strength to break the resistance and reach previous peaks.
